

PressReader
for Academic Libraries

7000+ publications

120+
countries

60+ languages

Watch our video

Our Story

It all started in 1999. We had a vision to keep students informed about stories that mattered— stories from home, and from around the globe.

Now, PressReader is an award-winning platform that delivers digital content to students in a way that makes sense to them. We've partnered with thousands of publishers to bring over 7,000 trusted newspapers and magazines to a single, user-friendly platform.

With new titles uploaded as soon as they're available from publishers, every student can find the valuable information they need to stay connected to their world.

This is the future of news: It's innovative. It's inclusive. It's international.

And it's at your fingertips.

We're a Canadian company headquartered in Vancouver.

We offer 7,000+ publications available on any device.

Offices in Dublin, Manila, as well as a network of global representatives

Our library experience

Institutions

European Parliament
European Central Bank
Deloitte
Library of Congress

Academic Libraries

Harvard Library
Princeton University
Yale
Georgia Tech
McGill University
Purdue University
Texas A&M University
City University of London
King's College London
Universitat Autònoma de Barcelona
European University Institute
Haute école spécialisée de Suisse occidentale
University of South Africa

Why it's good for your students

Choice

More newspapers and magazines than anyone else. Students from all disciplines can find the information they need.

No limits

Unlimited downloads that last forever on all devices. Seamless on-site and off-site access allow students to research from anywhere.

Global publications

Students come from all over. So should your content. We offer local and global titles from over 120 countries in more than 60 languages.

A research tool

Easy for students to find the information they need with keyword search, topic alerts and instant translation in up to 18 languages.

Beautifully designed, built for mobile

Cover view

Page view

Text view

Article view

Special features

Hello China

Read foreign titles and stay up-to-date on current events global news with PressReader's powerful instant translation feature, allowing instant translation in up to 18 different languages.

In the coming months we will be adding over 8,500 Chinese newspapers and magazines to the platform.

Why it's good for your library

The power of critical thinking

Content from trusted, quality sources allow students to open up a world of diverse perspectives.

Plugged into your world

It's our world, too. We work with schools and libraries to make sure students get information from the right places.

Easy and accessible

Seamless on-site and offsite access. PressReader can be set up in minutes. There's never anything to upgrade, install or maintain.

Go green

Offer a sustainable service to students without compromising their library experiencing.

Join the club

Millions of students around the world already use PressReader.

Set it up in minutes

There's nothing to plug in, install, or maintain.

Think outside the box

“Higher education is shifting because its core constituents—students—are starting to behave more like customers and are less forgiving of some of the inefficient and ineffective aspects of the academy not tailored for a strong customer experience.”

Andrew Roth
President
Emeritus, Notre Dame College

What the industry is saying

There's been a fundamental shift in the way people read content. In a world where the business models behind newspapers, magazines, books, movies, and music have transformed to meet drastic changes in consumer behavior—libraries too must follow suit or be left behind.

Download the full report here

What has changed? Well, quite a lot.

Print is facing some steep competition from the mobile screen. And readers have never had more avenues to discover all kinds of information.

This is no secret to librarians. A recent OCLC (Online Computer Library) study found that most academic librarians think their primary service (borrowing books) will change dramatically in the next five years.

So the question remains, how can the libraries of today adapt to the digital world of tomorrow?

That's why we turn to other rapidly evolving industries for answers. We pose the question to leading businesses like Spotify, Netflix, and Whole Foods, and our findings might just surprise you.

Types of access

Onsite
through the library's Wi-Fi

Offsite
from the library's website

Offsite
using their student email

At the library

Your students get unlimited access to over 7,000 premium newspapers and magazines as soon as they step through your doors. They can browse on any device by following two simple steps:

Download the PressReader app or visit pressreader.com
Connect to the library's Wi-Fi network to get access

That's it. Really.

PressReader can help students find relevant articles, credible sources, and information to back up their research.

We offer quality content from more than 120 countries in over 60 different languages. So students from all over the world can stay connected to what's happening locally and back home.

Best of all, they can get access how they want — on library computers, or on their own personal devices.

Offsite

Your students can take PressReader with them even after they walk out of your doors.

They can access PressReader offsite on any personal device in a few different ways.

By using their institution's email address to login on the PressReader app or on pressreader.com, or logging in through the university's library portal.

It's possible with PressReader.

6 TOP...
UNDER £5...
THE GREAT
BEER GUIDE

Cricket: Scotland celebrate first ever win over England

Nadal wins 11th French Open

The Guardian

MPs call for police inquiry into Brexit donor's Kremlin links

Trump aide: Trudeau stabbed us in the back

The Washington Post
Democracy Dies in Darkness

Chinese hackers stole Navy material

Contractor's network but key evidence warfare information, officials say

BY ELLEN HANSEN

Chinese government hackers stole a large amount of Navy material from a contractor's network, according to officials, including information on the Navy's cyberwarfare capabilities, according to a report from a senior Pentagon official. The report, which was obtained by The Washington Post, says that the hackers stole a large amount of information from a contractor's network, including information on the Navy's cyberwarfare capabilities, according to a report from a senior Pentagon official. The report, which was obtained by The Washington Post, says that the hackers stole a large amount of information from a contractor's network, including information on the Navy's cyberwarfare capabilities, according to a report from a senior Pentagon official.

Allies and experts see threat to the world order

Economic partners four leading from trade wars, dissent

BY KAREN THORNTON

When it came to the G7 summit in Canada, the world's leading economic powers were united in their support for the world order. But as the summit got underway, it became clear that the world's leading economic powers were not united in their support for the world order. The world's leading economic powers were not united in their support for the world order.

For the Capitals, what happened in Vegas will continue at home

As Washington claimed its first Stanley Cup, a wild night beckoned. The party, 44 years in the making, was just getting started.

BY ANNE KILGORE

As Washington claimed its first Stanley Cup, a wild night beckoned. The party, 44 years in the making, was just getting started. The party, 44 years in the making, was just getting started.

WANTS ADVERSITY TO REJOIN GROUP

U.S. allies scramble to respond to rift, tariffs

BY TARIK FALATTA AND JAMES WILSON

U.S. allies scramble to respond to rift, tariffs. The U.S. allies are scrambling to respond to the rift and tariffs. The U.S. allies are scrambling to respond to the rift and tariffs.

Justice Dept. actions signal fresh effort to stop leaks

BY NATE ZACHRY, DAVID L. HARRIS, AND KAREN FEDERMAN

Justice Dept. actions signal fresh effort to stop leaks. The Justice Department is taking action to stop leaks. The Justice Department is taking action to stop leaks.

TOP 10 INNOVATIONS

SECRETS AND STRATEGIES OF THE WORLD'S MOST DYNAMIC COMPANIES

The Washington Post
Democracy Dies in Darkness

Trump upends G-7 on Russia

WANTS ADVERSITY TO REJOIN GROUP

U.S. allies scramble to respond to rift, tariffs

BY TARIK FALATTA AND JAMES WILSON

Trump upends G-7 on Russia

WANTS ADVERSITY TO REJOIN GROUP

U.S. allies scramble to respond to rift, tariffs

BY TARIK FALATTA AND JAMES WILSON

How Hello Fresh

Get honest feedback from your team

PAGE 34

