Global Security Concerns

Experts estimate that half of on-line adults are cybercrime victims, 1 in 5 small and mid-size businesses are targets with cybercrime costing the global economy $500 Billion annually.

To address cybercrime, a new European Union (EU) privacy regulation, the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), went into effect May 2018. GDPR introduces new requirements on privacy, security, and compliance for any organization (U.S. included) that offer goods and services to EU residents. Non-compliance results in multi-million dollar fines and loss of contracts with EU governments and businesses.
