

VodFlow With Azure Media Services

VodFlow

VodFlow is a fully-customizable end-to-end VOD and live streaming video platform, built on top of Azure Media Services and addressing business needs of VOD and live video streaming services. It simplifies the way you publish your content through a very easy-to-use interface so you can manage content without even having technical knowledge or on-premises cloud infrastructure.

VodFlow is a highly available and scalable solution that can handle millions of viewers. It gives you full control over your content and helps you organize your live video streaming and VOD content in categories, manage metadata, secure and encrypt your content, and monetize it in different ways.

Access to the platform is subscription-based. It can be free or paid.

Payment can be done in 3 ways: per view
