

You've got the knowledge to win.

reDock  helps you find it.

According to the International Data Corporation, 76% of executives say their company's information is its biggest asset, yet 60% also say an inability to quickly find specific business information is a major barrier to winning more sales proposals.

It's no wonder that organizations collectively waste more than $5B annually searching for internal information while responding to RFPs.

No one likes responding to RFPs, but someone has to do it. Too often, the task falls on your top employees who know your business best. However, these valuable people have limited availability and are hard to recruit.

Spend less time, win more proposals with the power of AI reDock uses artificial intelligence (AI) and machine learning: to automate content and data search tasks, allowing users to quickly find the right internal information to assemble and win more proposals, get more projects, grow their business and earn more revenue.

reDock is a search engine for your corporate knowledge that learns as you use it, to help your organization:

Win more bids while saving time and money

Scale team effectiveness through AI and machine learning

Retain & access accrued corporate knowledge

Find the right information, right now

- Eliminate knowledge bottlenecks and SME-chasing through easy access to your entire corporate knowledge history
- Cut through years of network drive clutter to find crucial nuggets of information that will put your bid over the top

Easy integration into your current data repository

- Easily integrate with popular software like Office 365 for seamless implementation into existing workflows
- No-code integrations minimize IT involvement
- Search content quickly without having to manually upload documents
- Stay secure by controlling which documents are pushed to reDock, while ensuring strict access control with our connector services and many more...

Visit our website at www.redock.com to request your free trial.

Connect in one click to your existing document repositories

Let AI, not your teams, do the heavy lifting

- Sales and proposal teams are happier and more productive when not spending evenings and weekends manually searching mountains of documents for key content
- Make faster bid/no bid decisions, reduce hours per bid, and get optimal results with minimal training

Screenshot of reDock searching corporate documents.

Quickly explore related segments through reDock's context view.

Explore content quickly & intuitively

- reDock's powerful AI capabilities mean no more manually tagging documents
- Automated duplicate and similarity detection ensures you see only the most relevant content
- Query your content using natural language – no Boolean or search expertise required
- Easily copy-and-paste all types of company content right into your document

Visit our website at www.redock.com to request your free trial.