Do people struggle finding valuable information your organisation creates?

Being able to find the right information at the right time is crucial for you and your organisation. Atlas has a multitude of features that allow you to do just that.

Do you enable people to work as effectively as they can?

Atlas matches people with technology, systems and knowledge knitting together the Collective Intelligence of your organisation, engaging your people and freeing up valuable time.

Are people confused when choosing which tool to use for the task in hand?

Atlas de-clutters Office 365. A single interface provides simple access to information no matter where or how it is created.

Is your content working hard enough for your people or is it not as relevant as you or they wish it was?

Atlas pushes content to people based upon their own preferences making it relevant and engaging and offers users the ability to personalise content that is served to each user, so people see the things they care about.
