Expiration Management

Define the desired shelf life of your products and let us help you manage your stock and expiration challenges.

Did you ever have goods in stock that passed the expiry date?

Configure warning time frames and receive proactive warnings when items are approaching the expiration date, making sure you have enough time to act. With advanced warning, you have the time to decide what to do and make sure the right actions are executed prevent stock from going out of date and losing value.

Did your customer complain that you've sent stock with a shorter shelf life than expected?

Expiration Management prevents this from happening. Get warnings during your logistic process if a warehouse employee picks up an older lot to send to your valuable customer. And ofcourse we execute the same checks on inbound stock managing the expiration dates of incoming goods.

Let us help you manage your stock expiration dates!

By putting the necessary expiration date checks and warnings in place for your inventory as well as for both inbound and outbound transactions, we will keep you up to date, alerting you on time so you can take the actions needed. Avoid issues and plan distribution and production accordingly.

Features and benefits:

- Control on shelf life, never forget any stock

- Get actively warned of an approaching expiration date

- Manage the sequence of expiration dates for inbound goods

- Make sure you sent out the lots in the correct sequence to your customer

- A convenient overview shows you lot numbers that will expire soon
