What is a ProActive?

Our ProActive offering is a consulting package that we use as a standard first engagement to help our client prioritise their business requirements which lays the foundation to work towards BETTER BUSINESS.

Our ProActive Methodology

Our ProActive methodology drives project success by taking the debriefings, post-mortem and learnings from decades of project experience to identify the critical early steps that determine the quality and impact of a project.

We ensure that the context and environment of your project is clearly established and inclusive of the input from the right players within your organisation, taking into account the latest advances in technology and solutions where it adds value, all under the guidance of our specialists.

The ProActive core benefits

It is said “Hindsight is an exact science” which claims that it’s easy to spot mistakes and pitfalls once you’ve gone through them - but at Mint we push beyond that because we know that with the right perspective we can pro-actively manage risk, prioritise critical chain activities and streamline project delivery and implementation.

ProActive is a core engagement process for us. It solves project problems before they arise, so we can all deliver better business.
