About STOGlobalX

An integrated technology platform to issue, manage and trade tokenised securities

STOGlobalX enables institutions to tokenize securities and facilitate the virtual ownership and trading of conventional physical assets using digital tokens, powered by Blockchain technology. The end-to-end platform includes a comprehensive Tokenization Platform to put real world assets into fractional ownership on the Blockchain, while offering investors a digital investment marketplace that's secure, transparent and inclusive; P2P with no middlemen and in a market that operates 24/7. STOGlobalX also comprises a highly secure, institutional-grade security token exchange and trading platform complete with multi-factor authentication and military-grade encryption. The exchange features a comprehensive trading engine, extensible order book and integrated custodial services, making it a novel platform for global investors as well as professional traders to trade tokenized securities.

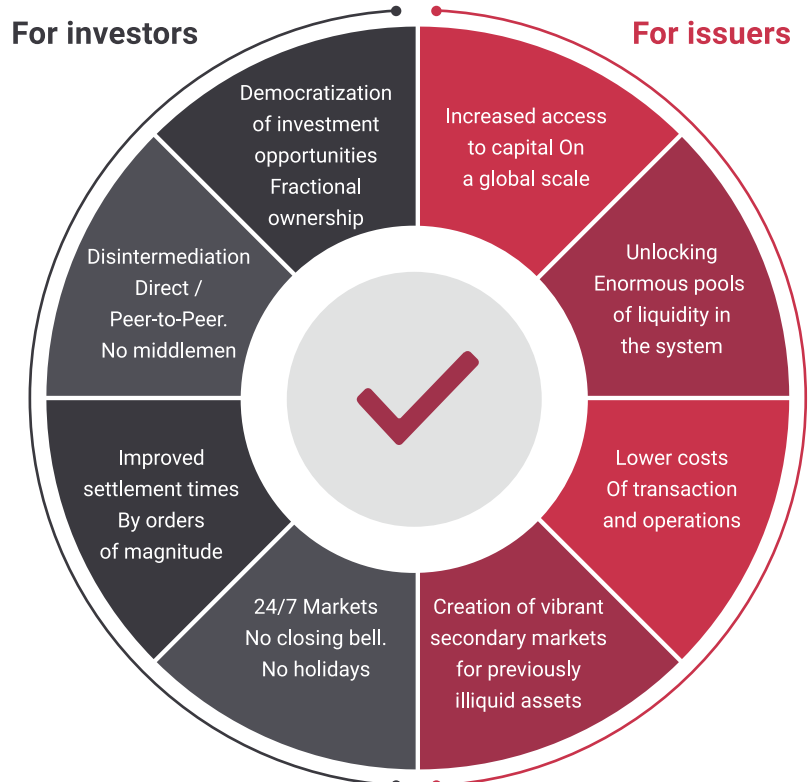

Built ground up with security and compliance at the core, the system will include integrated registration, KYC, approval and reporting functionality that allow institutions to tick all the boxes and comply with relevant regulations.

Why tokenize securities?

Tokenizing securities, financial instruments, and assets will have a profound impact on the world, especially financial markets

Security Tokens will quickly revolutionize the traditional finance world - liberating trillions of dollars worth of non-liquid assets, raising new capital and creating all-new secondary markets - on the Blockchain.
