

FOODWARE 365

EXPIRATION MANAGEMENT

Define the desired shelf life of your products and let us help you manage your stock and expiration challenges.

Did you ever had goods in stock that passed the expiry date?

Configure warning time frames and receive proactive warnings when items are approaching the expiration date, making sure you have enough time to act. By warning you in advance, you have the time to decide what to do and make sure the right actions are executed preventing the stock going out of date and losing value.

Did your customer complain that you've sent him stock with less shelf life compared to an earlier shipment?

Foodware 365 | Expiration Management prevents this from happening. Get warnings during your logistic process if the warehouse employee picks up an older lot to send to your valuable customer. And off course we execute the same checks on the inbound stock managing the expiration dates of the incoming goods.

Let us help you managing your stock expiration dates!

By putting the necessary expiration date checks and warnings in place for your inventory as well as for both inbound and outbound transactions, we will keep you up to date on what is going on. We will alert you on time so you can take the actions needed. Get insights in the lot numbers expiring in the upcoming week directly so you make a plan for the upcoming week.

Features and benefits:

- Control on shelf life, never forget any stock
- Get actively warned on forehand of an approaching expiration date
- Be assisted with checking the sequence of the expiration dates of goods supplied
- Make sure you sent out the lots in the correct sequence to your customer
- Easy overview which shows lot numbers that will expire soon
