Migration to Azure Modern Data Architecture

Business-Driven Approach for Modern Data Architectures

Business challenges and opportunities have changed greatly over the past few years. Most legacy data warehouse architectures were designed based on dated business requirements prior to Covid. All too often, migrations to modern data architectures take a blind eye to business requirements which limits business value. Persepta's balanced approach of business discovery and technical assessment will yield a thoughtful strategic roadmap for your migration to an Azure environment from a legacy data architecture.
