Unlock and master the power of cloud data.

Is your data secure and accessible?

To derive beneficial insights from data across your organisation, your data needs to be held centrally, in a data repository. The Cloud is the ideal environment for this, given its flexible and secure nature. Companies should assess the state of their data and the practical implications of creating a central data repository, to unlock insights in a matter of weeks.

Dufrain can enable your first steps towards being data driven, with our comprehensive, step by step, process to create a data insights repository for you. Or perhaps your journey is well underway, and you need experienced resources to take it to the next level.

Delivery Accelerator Pods

Whatever your Azure based data project, one of Dufrain's Delivery Accelerator Pod teams can help.

As Azure data experts, we can complement your own teams to get stalled or slow projects back on track. Quickly assessing your data landscape, our delivery focused data engineers can determine quick wins and strategic goals that can be derived from surfacing greater insights from your data using Microsoft Azure. Experienced in data migrations to Azure, building out of data platforms and creation of high-quality BI solutions that deliver real world insight and business value, we can ensure that you begin to benefit from your new solution as early as possible.
