

SaaS Spend Management Simplified

Get full visibility into your software portfolio for cost savings, expense tracking, and budget management.

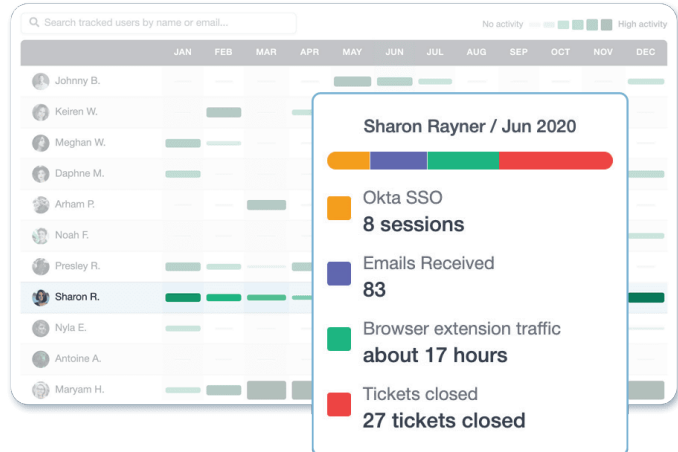

What is StackShine powered by LeaseQuery?

The average organization has over 100 software subscriptions and counts SaaS in their top 3 non-personnel costs. Discover, track, and manage your organization's software subscriptions in one simple platform. StackShine automatically detects your organization's software showing exactly what software is being used to identify savings opportunities and address security risks.

Replace spreadsheets and email searches with a centralized dashboard where everyone can see exactly what software is being used. Automatically track new software, attach invoices, and remind your team when renewals are coming up.

StackShine's ingestion engine gets deeper data on software use than the competition. Don't just see whether the software is being used, see what it's being used for and what kind of license is needed.

Key Features

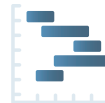

Subscription calendar

See the timing of past and future software expenses for simple and accurate budgeting.

Automated alerts

Get notified of new software subscriptions, upcoming renewal dates, unusual charges, and more for proactive software management and negotiations.

Powerful reporting

View spending, usage, activity, and licenses at aggregate and department levels for full visibility.

Security monitoring

Receive security alerts if any software you depend on has been breached.

Employee offboarding

When an employee is offboarded, automatically remove them from integrated software and tell you exactly where to remove loose-end access from.

Simple collaboration

Invite workspace administrators to collectively manage vendors, uncover expenses, track budgets, and a lot more.

Software catalog

Provide a centralized and convenient way for employees to request software access.

File management

Central repository for contracts, invoices, and files you need when reviewing a vendor.

"We grew so quickly and before we knew it we had no idea what apps were being used by our team or what the total costs were. Solving this problem manually was going to be a nightmare, StackShine has been a game changer for us."
