MICROSOFT DYNAMICS

Microsoft Dynamics AX and Microsoft Dynamics CRM (xRM)

CHALLENGE

The development of highly customized business applications provides organizations the unique perspective needed to manage their business strategies and tactics. But over time, organizations may suffer under the administrative burden of these disparate solutions – each with its own management requirements, development technologies and infrastructure.

The Microsoft Dynamics business application framework is designed to provide rapid development and deployment of a wide range of custom applications. And, to do it while delivering rapid application development, a high degree of flexibility, and consolidated systems management.

Microsoft Dynamics AX enables companies to respond more rapidly to the changing business climate, with solutions that deliver integrated financial, supply chain, human resources, and project management capabilities.

Microsoft Dynamics CRM is now positioned as an xRM, where “x” implies “any” relationship that needs to be managed such as vendors, suppliers, employees, government, residents, investors, and media, as well as customers.

OUR SOLUTION

Sierra Systems has the ability to look at your business environment, evaluate your goals and opportunities, and recommend the Microsoft Dynamics based applications that are aligned with your business strategy and information needs.

To streamline deployment, Sierra combines its over 45 year proven project and change management methodologies with the Microsoft Dynamics Sure Step Implementation Methodology. Once a solution is deployed Sierra works as a collaborative and transparent partner in providing life-cycle application management services for your Microsoft Dynamics solutions.
