The Problem

MARKET GAP

Microsoft Viva is a relatively recent entrant to the market. In fact, the development of User Experience platforms is still in its early stages, with very few, if any, products available that assist customers in harnessing the potential of Microsoft 365 to the extent that Viva does.

CUSTOMERS

Close to 60% of individuals report a diminished sense of connection with their team after transitioning to remote work. Viva actively promotes well-being by fostering meaningful connections and cultivating an inclusive workplace culture

RAPID CHANGE

The remote working population has surged by 140% since 2005, reflecting a rapid rise in the demand for virtual communities and collaborative tools.

The Solution

CREATE A BOND

Unify the entire organization based on your vision, mission, and strategic priorities.

AUDIENCE OF INTEREST

Organizations that operate in a partially or fully remote capacity seek to enhance both productivity and employee satisfaction.

REDUCE EXPENSE

Recruiting and onboarding represent significant costs. However, 94% of employees express a willingness to remain with a company for an extended duration if it commits to investing in their learning and development.

CLOSE THE DIVIDE

Microsoft Viva strikes an ideal balance between the office and home, with no other product in the market providing a comparable array of features.

CORPORATE ADVISORY

Have you made the decision to embrace Viva and harness its capabilities for your environment? We're here to support you with workshops, tutorials, customization, and virtual academies.

The core strength of any organization lies within its workforce.

Companies boasting a workforce with exceptionally high levels of engagement enjoy a significant 21% boost in profitability.*

of workers express their commitment to remaining with a company for an extended period if the organization actively prioritizes and invests in their ongoing learning and professional development*

Employees who are deeply engaged exhibit a remarkable 12 times lower likelihood of departing from their organization compared to their less engaged counterparts.*

of leading companies stated that digital training initiatives significantly enhanced both employee engagement and performance*
