xDM As A Service

We help you trust your data

We help you trust your data

xDM As A Service brings together data scattered in multiple source systems, enabling you to get a holistic overview of the data easily

Better value in business processes

No costly mistakes because of data - better customer experience

Start small and scale up

Modern, user friendly processes to govern and enrich data

A few real life examples of the problems we help to fix

Our service guy gets this alert from customers machinery for a maintenance need. It's a movable large equipment and location data is not available in the alert.

Customer calls to customer service. The service clerk has no information available for customer's purchase history or deliveries and needs to check various places to get the facts straight.

We have multiple BU's and separate ERP's. We can't tell what's our installed base in the market.

It takes two weeks to process a customer application before customer is able to use the services

We can't open up a self-service portal because we are embarrassed of the data quality – we don't want our customers to learn it

→ Ineffective processes, poor customer and employee experience.

→ Needless costs and lost income

These are the fixes - Start now

You do not have to be imprisoned by your ERPs and legacy systems - you can be the master of your data in an agile and easy to set-up framework

Modern MDM is not a long and costly project - it can be an agile and easy way of working and can bring business value from the first steps onwards

Transparency will empower your personnel to take ownership of the data - and also fix it at the source

MDM will not break your business processes -we'll just add an easy way to get the most of your data -accurately xDM can solve some of your business application needs - and help you to outsource some of the data input to your partners, suppliers and network

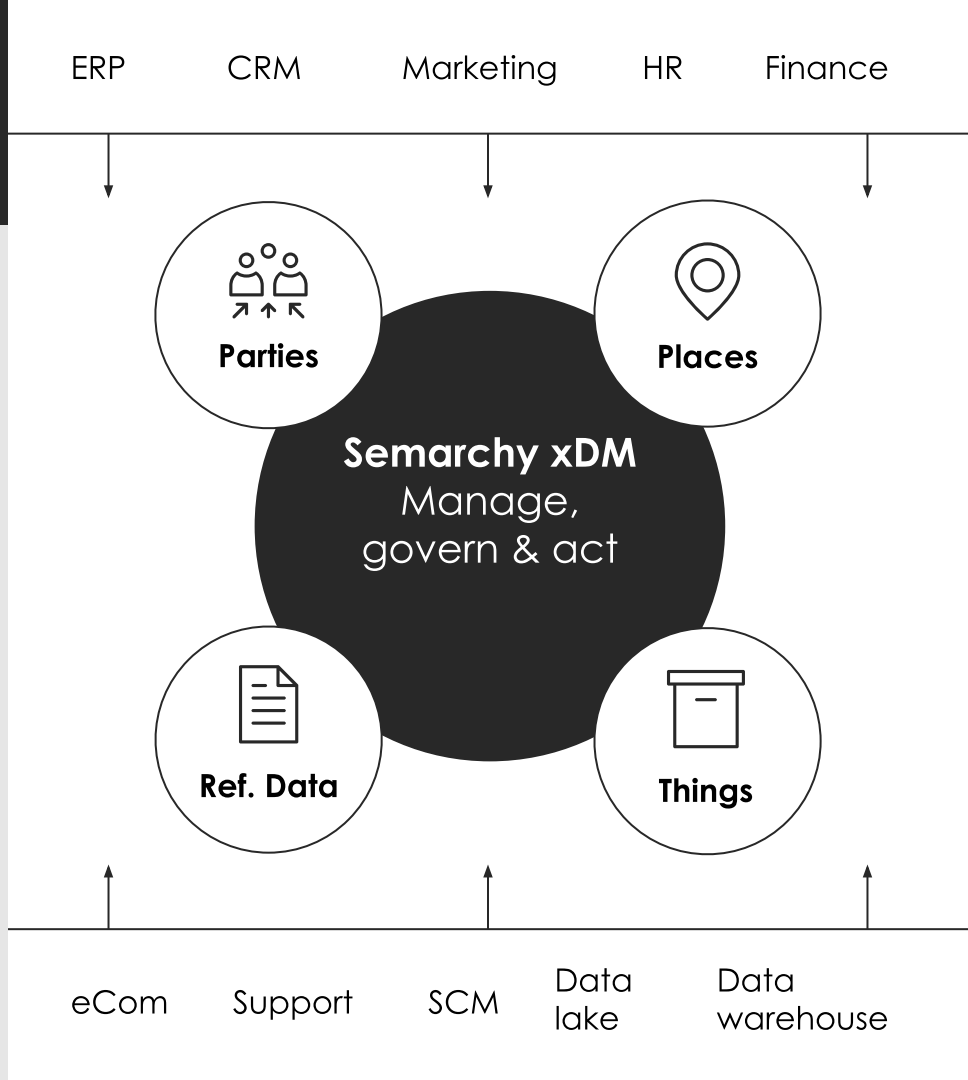
xDM as a Service will give you transparency and possibilities to easily fix data quality.

Start small and scale up - no upfront costs

Multiple different source systems, multiple types of data, data is scattered, multiple needs for the same data

- Profiling
- Data Apps
- Data quality
- Workflows
- Enrichment
- Dashboards
- Match /merge
- Integration APIs
- Data providers
- Microservices



You can master and govern your data – even if it in fact is created in multiple systems and scattered

By processing the data, you'll make it possible to analyze, predict and act based on trustworthy data
