

Our mission

Definely is on a mission to simplify the way the world understands information.

Who we are

Definely is an award-winning, Microsoft-backed Legal Tech company redefining the way documents are drafted, reviewed and understood.

Backed by

Our story

Our co-founders, Nnamdi and Feargus, previously worked together at Magic Circle Firm, Freshfields. At the time, Feargus was one of the few registered blind lawyers in London.

Nnamdi became curious as to how Feargus managed to navigate complex legal agreements with his visual impairment, which raised the question “what solution would make this easier?”

Feargus said “if there was a way to access defined terms and references without having to leave the clause I am working on, it would save me so much time.” From there the journey began!

Our solutions

Some of our clients

Our Security Certifications

