Gain Insight Into Every Facet of Your Business

In the age of data, you can't manage what you can't measure.

Pharmacies need timely access to operational data across the entire enterprise to make better strategic decisions and propel the business. They need more than myopic, single-department data. They need insight into multiple operational functions spanning multiple locations, along with sophisticated predictive analytics and reporting tools to tease out the real meaning of the collective data.

What could you do with your data to grow your pharmacy's business?

Robust Business Intelligence

With Explore Dx®, our business intelligence tool, you'll gain insight into every area of your enterprise—enabling you to make better decisions for your business. Manage and measure your data with our multi-source, web-based platform that allows you to pull data and create reports in near-real time.

Explore Dx provides visibility into your operations, giving your team insight into actionable areas to help improve your margins, minimize costs and risks, and support your current and future health and wellness initiatives.
