Simplify the move from ADFS to Azure AD.

Many organisations who are currently using ADFS are looking to utilise the enhanced functionality of Azure AD and its myriad of advanced threat protection features – but they don't know where to start.

Despite its popularity, organisations using ADFS face a higher risk of vulnerabilities than their peers and competitors – many of whom are benefitting from Password Hash Sync, incorporated with Pass-through authentication where enforcement of on-premise AD policies apply.

It's possible, however, to undertake a seamless migration, improving security, offering up new features, and getting organisations back on track. With Azure AD's enhanced functionality, new possibilities also open up for organisations – the sky is truly the limit.
