Driving Positive Change through Technology

Working with you to define and execute a change management program over 2 weeks to demonstrate success

Why Change Management?

Akari Solutions have an in-house change management practice, underpinned by Prosci methodology and Accredited Project Management principles. This means our customers are supported by an inclusive programme of continual education, awareness, and training. Not only does this ensure that all end users can engage with new technologies through simplified delivery, but this can happen on a global scale, across multiple sites. Our 2-week intensive workstream will demonstrate the importance of empowering staff of all abilities to have the confidence to complete tasks which will improve their jobs. This allows for training around 50 champions and 300 end users, which can be flex up and down based on the organisation

Our Approach

At Akari, we strive to inspire change with inventive and creative technologies to further enable people's experiences.
