Workforce Management Solutions are technologies that are designed to help organisations to increase employee productivity and engagement.

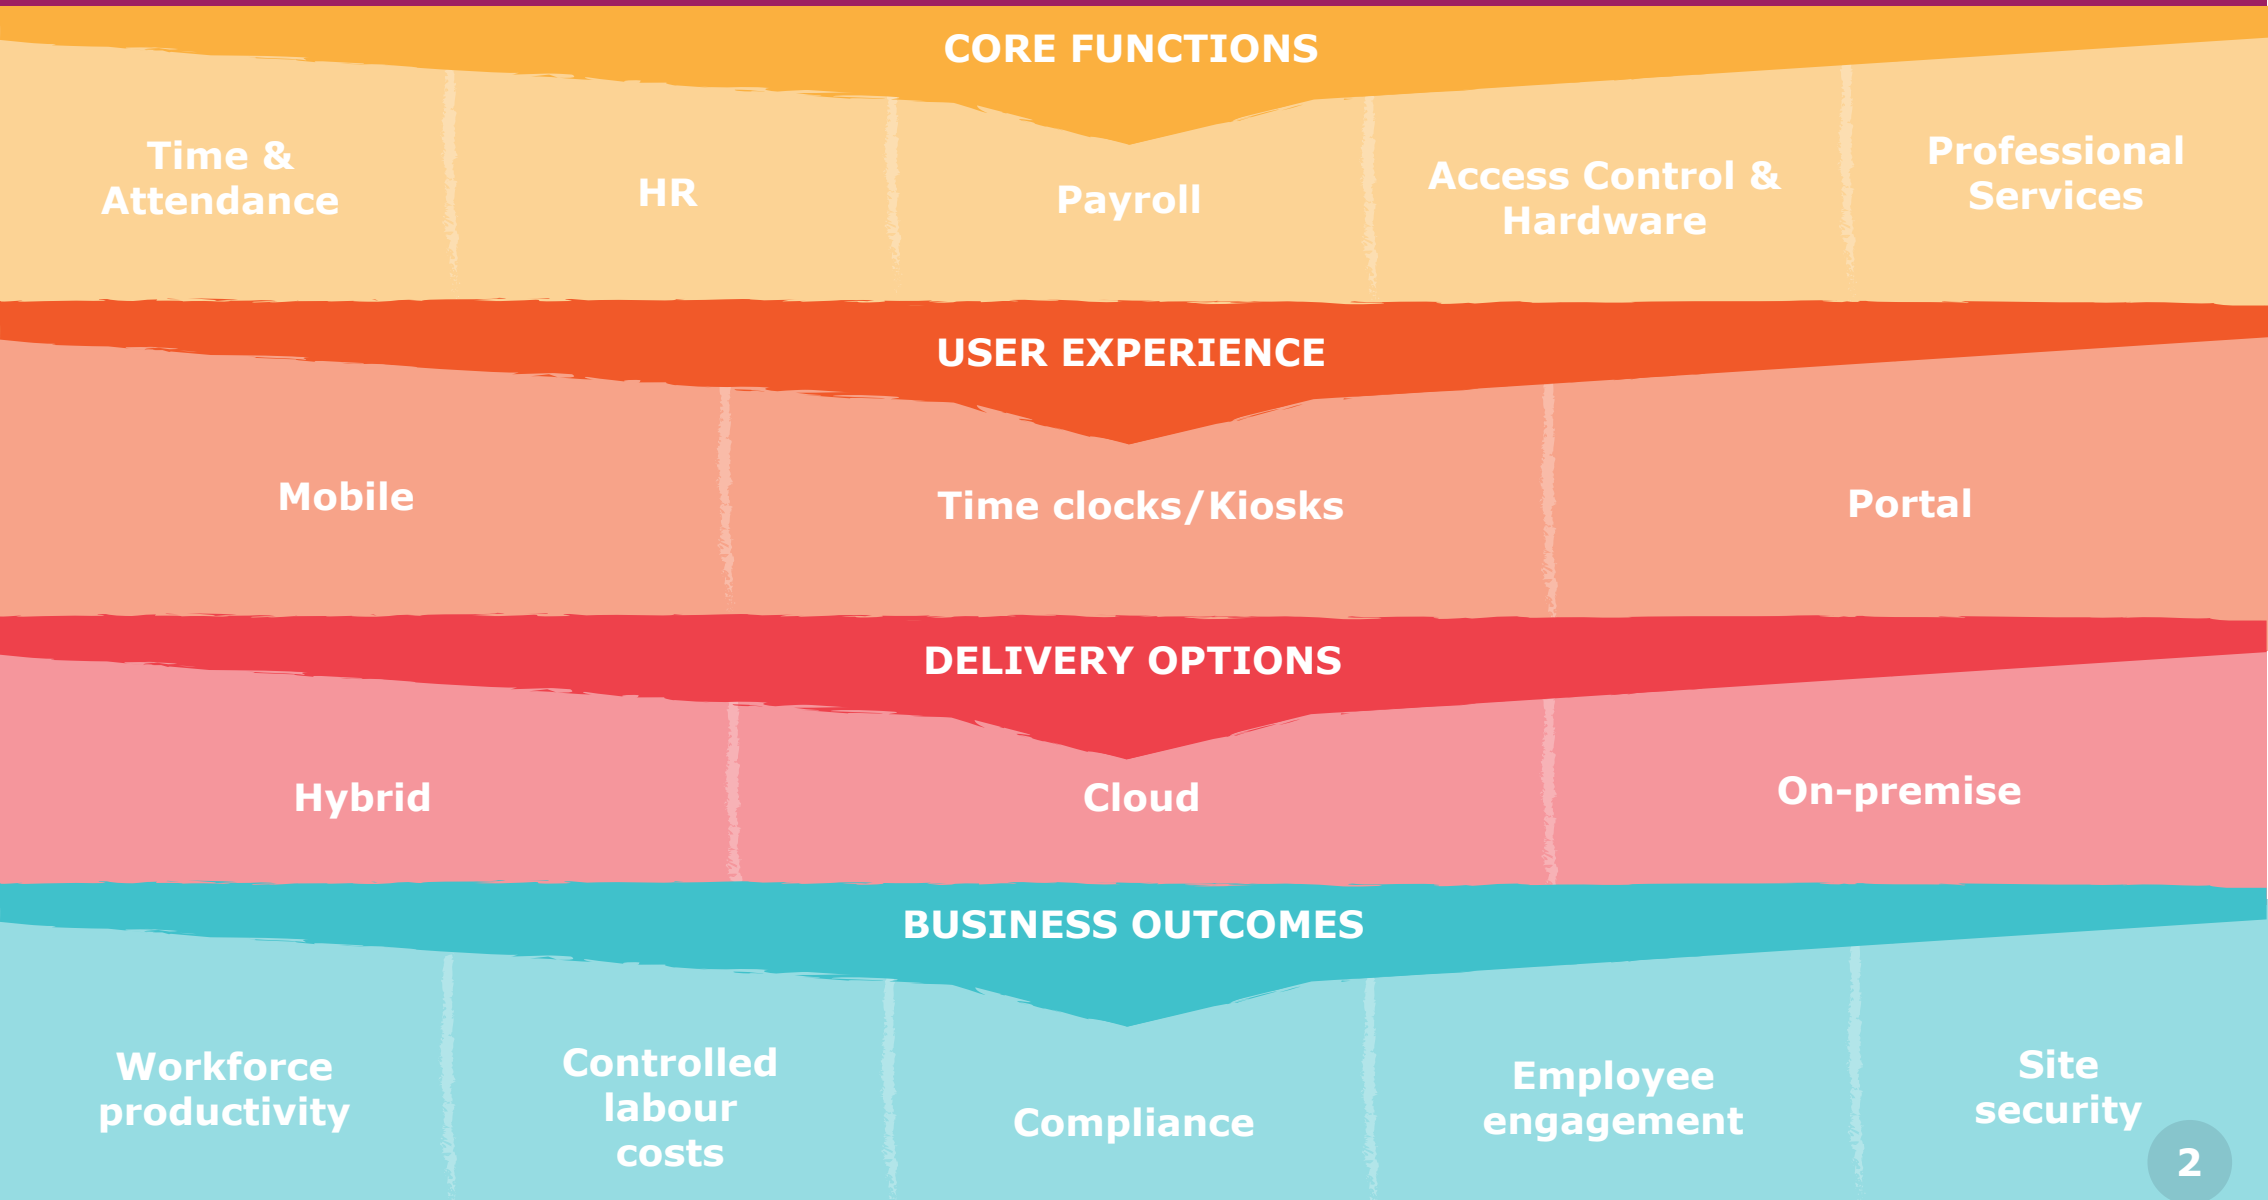

They can mean different things to different people, but in our view, integrated Time and Attendance, Payroll and HR, often coupled with Access Control systems, deliver the single most accurate view of your workforce.

With the right Workforce Management Solutions your organisation can:

- Shrink administration costs
- Reduce costly payroll errors
- Schedule strategically
- End employee time theft
- Allow users to forecast labour demands and develop workforce contingency plans
- Help administrators manage employee schedules

What are Workforce Management Solutions?

Workforce Management Solutions typically provide integrated Time and Attendance, Payroll, HR and Access Control to deliver the single most accurate view of your workforce.

According to the Gartner guide for Workforce Management Applications 2018², core functions of Workforce Management Solutions include:

Accurately measuring the working time and absences of workers, and making this information available to payroll and other HR systems

Assisting employers to be compliant with legislation and agreements pertaining to working time, pay and leave

Providing a means of creating efficient and fair work schedules and the provision of tools to track the productivity of workers

What are the benefits of a Workforce Management Solution?

By using Workforce Management Solutions, organisations are easily able to²:

Improve employee experience by using a set of features designed to deliver a better experience for the workforce, including scheduling flexibility, monitoring rewards and recognition, and communicating easily with managers

Introduce flexible working, supporting both employees and managers to offer flexible working (67% of employees wish they were offered flexible working⁴)

“Mitrefinch has simplified our working practices and considerably reduced duplication of information. It has definitively saved us money in terms of the cost of maintenance time and improved efficiency.”

Valassis

Many organisations have yet to make the most of effective Workforce Management Solutions.

In the contact centre space, for instance, almost 60% of businesses still rely on spreadsheets and nearly one in 10 firms use pen and paper or whiteboards as their primary means of scheduling shifts¹.

By 2020, 30% of global midmarket and large enterprises will have invested in a cloud-deployed human capital management (HCM) suite for administrative HR, but will still need to source 20% to 30% of their HCM requirements, such as Workforce Management².

So, you're looking for a solution. Where do you start?

There are many important things to consider when choosing a Workforce Management Solution.

Make sure to check:

- If the software can integrate with existing payroll or HR management systems
- If employees and managers can access it remotely through mobile devices
- If it's hosted in a secure cloud location, on a server or on-premise
- Any additional security measures such as regular backups and real-time recovery options

Before you start the search for a Workforce Management Solution that suits you, make sure you know exactly what your organisation needs.

When looking at a workforce management provider ask if their solutions can be adjusted to meet your needs.

Can they offer the flexibility and integration required?

It's important to ensure you're dealing with a provider who can give you a solution that will suit your specific business requirements

Time and Attendance

One of the most popular products in Workforce Management is time and attendance tracking software.

Mitrefinch Time and Attendance Systems allow you to:

- Monitor workforce movements and anomalies with established work rules and patterns
- Manage operational costs, with labour costing tools that allow you to plan daily and weekly tasks across multiple cost centres, compare planned tasks and budgets, and track projects by hours, quality or cost
- Roster and manage the contracted hours of staff to fixed and flexible shifts, according to predefined budgets and necessary skill matches for shift cover
- Manage employee details, absence profiling and entitlement accruals

- Allow employees to work flexibly, control access and accurately record clocking in and out with fobs, swipe cards or biometric entry points
- Mobilise your workforce with remote clocking and responsive system layouts for phones and tablets
- Integrate workforce time and attendance with HR and payroll systems for the single most accurate view of your workforce

From an employee perspective, deploying a time and attendance solution can have multiple benefits.

Having greater clarity over when and where they are expected to work means employees can plan their diaries accordingly.

They can identify early on where there are gaps in schedules, and can accept overtime shifts without having to rearrange their personal lives.

"As a consequence of fully implementing Mitrefinch Time & Attendance, we have realised in excess of £40,000 of annual recurring cost savings."

Access Control

Keeping workplaces secure is a priority for any company.
